This booklet is made up from images taken at the exhibition of Freeport at the Backroom, Copeland Park Gallery located at the end of Holdron’s Arcade, Peckham between 22-25 November 2018. These images represent the viewer’s journey to the exhibition, the layout of the space and their experience in the space itself. These photographs function as a part of the creative work alongside the installation’s soundscape.

The mellow light/shadow moments that I see on my wall from time to time gave me a hint of what an indoor shelter could feel like. Whatever I see it, it feels like it's just there for me. Just that's been seen by me. Icollected these moments and think about these moments. I feel like I'm slightly falling off the plan.

That's why I wanted to catch those moments and create a video that gives a hint of the idea of feeling that I felt in or-der for other people to see the video, to watch the video, and feel inspired to create a "safe space" in their minds, so that they're no longer clueless about where to start with searching for an answer for that kind of longing. They don't really know they have. Everybody has inside of them.
