Thankyou for your consultation.

This is a very extensive consultation - but I am pleased to record that on the basis of our present understanding of the proposal, we have no adverse consultations to offer. It is a bold scheme in a great building that is based upon a professional understanding of its importance and delicacy.

This acquiescence assumes, however, that all the measures of archaeological mitigation, outlined in the Harris report, will be made formal conditions, that the Conservation Management Plan will be followed and that Freeland, Res and Roberts will continue to be the supervising architects.
